

Frankenmuth Heart & Soul is an engagement process to ensure all residents have a voice in the future of our beloved community. This initiative focuses on community engagement and conversations that help to alter the way residents interact with decision makers. Community Heart & Soul actively seeks the collective wisdom of all citizens, including those voices that are often missing, bringing people together to build a stronger, healthier, and more economically vibrant community.

Story Givers – Call for Volunteers

Do you want to share your story? Tell your hopes, ideas, and wishes all while making a huge impact in the City’s future? Here is your opportunity!

Frankenmuth Heart & Soul is looking for people to share their story. You will be asked simple questions by a fellow neighbor such as “What do you want the City to look like in five years?”. They will be taken and listened too by your fellow friends and neighbors – the volunteers of Heart and Soul. The team will listen to understand your goals, hopes, concerns, and values. Once the interview is analyzed, a plan on how to achieve the subject's hopes and overcome any concerns will be created. With many interviews, analyses, and ideas for action, Heart and Soul can develop a community created vision and the necessary steps to reach the it.

Time Commitment: These informal stories will be on your time, in a location of your preference and will take only about 30 minutes.

If you are interested in being interviewed, please complete this form and submit it to and Heart and Soul Core Team member, email heartoffrankenmuth@frankenmuthcity.com or drop it off at the City’s Government Center at 240 W Genessee St. as soon as possible. Any questions, comments, or concerns may also be directed to Ashley McKnight.
